Hearts Embrace shapes a moment of intimacy and calm in the middle of Times Square. Its airy presence aspires to articulate a temporary collective space. A series of folded perforated metal panels come together to shape a thin veiled embrace – a space of reflection and pause amidst the beating heart of New York. Its perforated surface creates a saturated colored screen that filters the surrounding context to offer a warm embrace to all in the cold winter months. Hearts Embrace becomes a subtle public space where, for a fleeting moment, you may find yourself while surrounded by it all.
